EMBASSY OF MOROCCO
WASHINGTON, D.C.
INTERNAL SECURITY - MOROCCO

On January 22, 1964, a confidential informant, who has furnished reliable information in the past, learned that Brigadier General Godfrey T. McHugh, United States Air Force, Air Force Aide to President Lyndon B. Johnson, informed Ali Bengelloun, Ambassador of Morocco to the United States, that he, along with all the military people at the White House, are leaving their jobs. These jobs will then be handled by the Department of Defense. McHugh indicated to Bengelloun that it was his opinion that President Johnson is doing this for political reasons in order to be re-elected President, and when the election is over things will come back to normal. McHugh informed Bengelloun that he will probably resign from the Air Force and go into international business.

The official title of Bengelloun was obtained from the current issue of the "Diplomatic List", a publication of the United States Department of State, and the title of McHugh from the current issue of "The Congressional Directory".
